

Meiji University Language Exchange Program (MU-LEP)

Experience real cross-cultural exchange through language learning

1. What is the Language Exchange Program?

MU-LEP offers Meiji University students the opportunity to improve their conversational skills in foreign languages by teaching and learning each other's native language—or language they are proficient in. It's an engaging and hands-on experience that helps students deepen mutual cultural understanding.

The program is built on reciprocity: you will teach your own language while learning your partner's in return. Why not take a break from the classroom and join us for practical and informal language practice?

An additional goal of the program is to foster cross-cultural awareness. As you explore your partner's culture and share your own, you may even rediscover aspects of your culture that you had not noticed.

2 Eligibility

Open to regular and exchange students at Meiji University.

6 Important Notes

- This program works best when both parties actively teach and learn. Aim for balanced participation.
- Your partner is a fellow student, not a professional language teacher. Preparing beforehand helps you both benefit.
- Exchange of money is strictly prohibited.
- Do not share personal information of your partner with any third party without his/her consent.
- Participants must follow Meiji's anti-harassment guidelines for a safe and respectful environment. Harassment Prevention Guidelines

7 FAQ

Q1: I am not confident in English—can I still join?

A1: Absolutely! It's a great opportunity to improve.

Q2: Will I definitely be matched if I apply?

A2: Not guaranteed—it depends on demand. All applicants will be notified either way.

Q3: Can I register for multiple languages?

A3: No, you can't at once. But you may register again for other languages if needed.

Q4: How do I meet my partner?

A4: You will get their contact details via the university. Reach out and arrange a meeting.

Q5: Do we have to meet every week?

A5: Only if both parties agree. Flexibility is key.

Q6: Can I keep meeting my partner after the program ends?

A6: Yes, as long as both of you wish to continue.
