8. Important Notes

■ Classes at Meiji University during study abroad

In principle, students are not allowed to take classes at Meiji University during the semester in which they participate in University-wide Study Abroad Program. Consult with the School/Graduate School office before applying as rules may differ depending on the School/Graduate School.

■ Preparation for the study abroad

After the internal screening, it is each student's responsibility to follow the necessary procedures such as application to the host university, course registration, arranging accommodation, applying for visa, etc. Note that International Collaboration Office will NOT prepare for these on behalf of the students.

■ Information on the countries and the partner universities

Make sure to always gather up-to-date information from the original sources (i.e., official websites of each university, websites of the embassies, etc.). 「海外安全ホームページ」 provided by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Japan has useful information on different countries. 「留学報告書 (Study abroad reports)」 of Meiji students who studied abroad in the previous years are available in Meiji University website for reference.

URL for 「外務省海外安全ホームページ」:

<https://www.anzen.mofa.go.jp/>

URL for 「留学報告書 (Study abroad reports)」:

<https://www.meiji.ac.jp/cip/report/report.html>

■ Choosing the universities

Applicants may choose up to eight universities at the time of application to the internal screening. However, make sure to choose carefully, keeping in mind that the applicants may be selected as candidates of any of their 1st to 8th choices. No change will be allowed to the choice of universities or to the order of choices after the online application period. Also, no withdrawal will be allowed once selected as candidates.

■ Choosing the language

University-wide Study Abroad Program is NOT for language learning. Whether the submission of the certificate is required or not, students must be capable of taking university level regular academic courses in that language. In case that applicants wish to apply in multiple languages, "Statement of Purpose" must be submitted in each language they are applying. Note that the scores listed in the "Admission Details" are the minimum requirements of each university. As higher scores may be required by the school/department where the applicant wishes to study, continuous efforts to improve language skills are highly recommended.

■ Academic Information

At some universities, incoming international students belong to one of the schools/departments and take most/all of the courses from that school/department, while other universities let incoming international students take courses freely from different schools/departments without belonging to a specific school/department. Refer to "Admission Details" as well as the official website of each university for the academic information. Note that some universities have restrictions on taking certain courses/areas of study for incoming students. It is therefore highly recommended for students to always have alternative options as it is not guaranteed that they are able to take the courses of their preference. Furthermore, the host university may judge the student's language ability as not sufficient to take regular courses and request to take language support courses instead. Regarding the credit transfer of language courses, consult with the School/Graduate School office.

■ Credit transfer

Credits earned at the host university MAY be transferred to that of Meiji University by going through the necessary procedure designated by the Schools/Graduate Schools. However, it is often the case that the number of approved credits is smaller than the credits students usually earn at Meiji University. Applicants should consult with their School/Graduate School office in advance as there is no guarantee of being able to graduate within the designated study period.

■ Cost of Study Abroad

It varies depending on the host university, country, type of accommodation (dormitory/apartment), lifestyle (self-catering/dining out), etc. The average cost for one year [Fee-Paying] program is considered to be approx. 3,000,000-5,500,000 JPY (tuition and fee of Meiji University are excluded). Note that careful planning and budgeting are absolute necessities, as costs may be higher than this depending on exchange rates and higher prices.

<Example of the necessary fees>

- Tuition and fee of Meiji University
- Tuition of the host university
- Mandatory fees of the host university other than tuition (Facility fee, Registration fee, Student fee, etc.)
- Airfare, Visa application fee, Books & Supplies, Phone & Internet, other miscellaneous expenses, etc.
- Accommodation fee and meals
- Overseas Travel Insurance fee, etc.

!! IMPORTANT !!

Students participating in University-wide Study Abroad Program [Fee-Paying] are required to pay both "Tuition and fee of Meiji University" AND "Tuition of the host university" while studying abroad. Make sure to discuss with the guarantor in advance of application as the financial burden is much greater compared to that of University-wide Study Abroad Program [Exchange].

■ Mandatory Overseas Travel Insurance

It is mandatory for every student who participates in "University-wide Study Abroad Program" to purchase the overseas travel insurance designated by Meiji University for safety management reasons. If the host university/country also has a mandatory insurance, students must purchase both insurances. (Estimated cost of the mandatory Overseas Travel Insurance of Meiji University: approx. 120,000-200,000 JPY for one year program)

■ Accommodation

Students are responsible for finding their own accommodation during study abroad. Some universities have student dormitories or provide information on apartments but they are not necessarily guaranteed. Note that International Collaboration Office does not take part in finding students' accommodation.

■ Visa application

Students are responsible for obtaining the necessary visa to study abroad. In general, they can apply for visa at the embassy/consulate/visa application center of each country. Note that International Collaboration Office does not take part in visa application.

■ Impact on Job Hunting

Studying abroad may affect the job hunting depending on the year and timing of the study abroad. It is highly recommended to consult with the Employment/Career Support Center (就職キャリア支援センター) at an early stage.

■ Study abroad while taking Special Certification Program Course

Due to the nature of the course, there is a high possibility of not being able to graduate within the designated study period. Students must consult with the Certification Courses Office (資格課程事務室) before applying.

■ Study abroad in the last year at Meiji University

Students must consult with the School/Graduate School office before applying as each school has different rules.

■ Meiji University Study Abroad Encouragement Subsidy

Participants of "University-wide Study Abroad Program" are eligible to apply for "Meiji University Study Abroad Encouragement Subsidy". Refer to the Application Guidelines published in June/July each year for the details of the eligibilities, amount of subsidy, etc. (Guidelines for the previous year is available for reference for the time being).

URL for the Application Guidelines: <https://www.meiji.ac.jp/cip/financial/jyosei.html>

■ Application to another study abroad program at the same time

Applicants are generally not allowed to apply to another study abroad program such as the programs organized by their schools at the same time. However, as long as applicants can decide which program to join before the announcement of the internal screening results*, applicants are allowed to apply to another program. Applicants must specify the details of the other program in the online application form and inform the International Collaboration Office as soon as its result is out. Note that it is obligatory to choose "University-wide Study Abroad Program" if the result of the other program is to be announced after February, 2024. Applicants must consult with the program organizer (school, study abroad agency, etc.) in advance for an approval.

* Examples of the cases that applicants are allowed to apply to another study abroad program

- 1) "University-wide Study Abroad Program" is your 1st choice, and you withdraw another program's application after being selected as candidates of "University-wide Study Abroad Program".
- 2) Another program is your 1st choice, and its result is out before the announcement of the internal screening results of "University-wide Study Abroad Program".

■ Withdrawal

Once selected as candidates, students are not allowed to withdraw from the study abroad program without a reasonable ground. Keeping in mind that one's withdrawal may result in taking away another student's study abroad opportunity, applicants must do well enough research on the study abroad process, necessary funds, risks and consequences of the study abroad, etc. before applying.
