②研究概要 / Outline of Research
From 19 April to 7 May 2023, Dr Arribert-Narce stayed at Meiji University as part of the research partnership in intermedia studies that was set up with the University of Edinburgh in November 2020, with the view to enhance international collaboration between these institutions. During his stay, Dr Arribert-Narce had regular meetings with his hosts Dr Alex Watson and Prof. Rumiko Oyama, both based in the School of Arts and Letters at Meiji, so as to plan the next phases of the partnership and work on joint research grant applications. He also made visits to some of the university's outstanding institutes that are particularly relevant for intermedia studies such as the Meiji University Museum, the Yoshihiro Yonezawa Memorial Library of Manga and Subcultures and the AKU YOU Memorial Museum. Unfortunately, due to the death of his father, Professor Arribert-Narce had to cut his visit to Japan short, and return early to see his family. This meant that the planned Special lecture (9 May) and student presentation (10 May) could not be given. Professor Arribert-Narce will return self-funded to Meiji to speak at "Masks and Screens" Meiji-Edinburgh joint symposium on 17 December 2023, and the "Global Barthes" international symposium on 18 May 2024. He also will be the chief organizer of the Edinburgh-Meiji two-day workshop "Theories and Practices of Intermediality Today", which will take place at University of Edinburgh on 14 and 15 March 2024. Dr. Watson and Dr. Arribert-Narce's jointly-edited essay collection based on the Edinburgh-Meiji collaboration, Intermedial Encounters Between Image, Music and Text, will be published with Peter Lang in December 2023.
