< Obtaining a “Student” Visa >

For applicants with residence status in Japan

Applicants staying on a “Student” visa

If you are already a holder of a “Student” visa, you may apply for an extension of your residence status three months before the expiration date of your current visa. Please note that this status may be revoked if you stay for more than three months without completing the necessary procedures to extend your visa.

Applicants staying on a visa other than a “Student” visa

If you are staying in Japan on a visa other than a “Student” visa, please apply for a change of residence status.

The Graduate School Office will issue a “Letter of Acceptance (入学許可証 Nyugakukyokasho)” during the enrollment procedure, so please use this document to apply for the visa. Please note that those who are in Japan on a “Short-stay” visa may be required to leave temporarily, as the change of residence status cannot be made within Japan. Also, those who are enrolled in a Japanese language facility or specialized training college prior to enrolling in the Graduate School of Meiji University are required to submit an attendance certificate issued by each institution to the Immigration Bureau when applying for an extension.

Please note that Meiji University are not responsible for managing your residence status if you continue to stay on a visa other than a “Student” visa.

For applicants without residence status in Japan

In order to reside in Japan as a Meiji University student, you must apply for a “Student” visa at a Japanese embassy or consulate in your country. A Certificate of Eligibility (COE), issued by the Tokyo Regional Immigration Bureau, is required to facilitate the processing of your visa application. Application documents for a COE will be sent with enrollment documents.

If you have relatives/financial sponsors or receive a scholarship in Japan, please request a proxy application for a COE from the Tokyo Regional Immigration Bureau.

If you are considering to request Meiji University to submit a proxy application for a COE, submit all necessary application documents by the specified deadline, which is much earlier than the enrollment registration deadline. In both the above cases, Meiji University is not responsible for the result of the visa application.

[Note 1] Screenings of visa applications are conducted by the Ministry of Justice. In case the visa issuance is delayed or the application is denied and you are unable to attend the courses at Meiji University, the University assumes no responsibility.

[Note 2] Most scholarships for international students require a “Student” visa as application criteria.

[Note 3] The issuance of the COE is judged by the Tokyo Regional Immigration Bureau of the Ministry of Justice and it may take a long time. There is a possibility that you may not be able to obtain a visa before the semester starts.
