

Meiji University Activity Restriction Guidelines

Under the Meiji University Activity Restriction Guidelines, the spread of the new-type coronavirus infection is divided into 6 stages from level 0 to 5, and defines the scope of each activity according to each level.(Released on April 22, 2020)

The Guidelines and actions are subject to change depending on future conditions.We will notify you of any new information through HP, Oh-o! Meiji etc.

●The current Level is 0(Blue). The period from April 1, 2023 to May 7, 2023 is the transition period from Level 1 to Level 0.

As of April 1, 2023

Level	Criteria	Classes and Educational Activities	Research activities (Online activity is allowed at all levels)	Student's entry into campus	Extracurricular activities (Online activity is allowed at all levels)	Counter services (Offices)	Facility lending	Meetings
Level 0 (BLUE)	Normal or low-risk	Normal (With an awareness of basic infection control measures)	Normal (With an awareness of basic infection control measures)	Normal (With an awareness of basic infection control measures)	Normal (With an awareness of basic infection control measures)	Normal (With an awareness of basic infection control measures)	Normal (With an awareness of basic infection control measures)	Normal (With an awareness of basic infection control measures)
Level 1 (Green)	A state in which ordinary educational and research activities can be conducted by taking measures such as avoiding 3Cs	Classes are conducted Face-to-face with special attention to avoid spreading infection. Online classes are also used.	Research activities continue while special attention is paid to avoiding the spread of infection.	Students may enter while taking care to avoid spreading infection.	Only certain face to face activities approved by the university are allowed while special attention is paid to avoiding the spread of infection.	Counter services (Offices) are open but special attention must be paid to avoid spreading infection. People are urged to use e-mail and make telephone inquiries.	Lending facilities are available to non-faculty members and faculty members while taking care to avoid spreading infection. Only those who are related to the university can participate in the dining at the university facilities.	Face-to-face meetings are allowed but special attention must be paid to avoid spreading infection. Online or email meetings are also used.
Level 2 (Yellow)	A state in which educational and research activities requires certain restrictions even after infection control measures have been taken	Classes are conducted online in principle. Some face-to-face classes with a limited number of students are held.	In principle, participation in and the sponsoring of research activities involving meetings at academic societies is prohibited. Research activities in the university are permitted with due consideration for the research environment.	Only some facilities approved by the university are available. Students may enter while taking care to avoid spreading infection when students need to attend face-to-face classes or to use facilities.	Face to face activities is prohibited in principle. Only certain face to face activities approved by the university are allowed while special attention is paid to avoiding the spread of infection.	Counter services (Offices) are open but special attention must be paid to avoid spreading infection. People are urged to use e-mail and make telephone inquiries.	Lending facilities to non-faculty members are not available. Lending to faculty members is allowed but only for a limited number of people.	Face-to-face meetings are allowed but special attention must be paid to avoid spreading infection. Online or email meetings are preferred.
Level 3 (Orange)	A state in which educational and research activities on campus must be suspended even after infection control measures have been taken	Online classes only.	In principle, research trips should be canceled. Participation in and sponsoring of meetings at academic societies is prohibited. As a general rule, research must be conducted at home, and entry into campus is possible only when necessary for educational and research preparation.	In principle, students should refrain from entering the campus. Only some facilities approved by the university are available.	[Athletic Association activities] Face to face activities is prohibited in principle. Only certain face to face activities approved by the university are allowed while special attention is paid to avoiding the spread of infection. [Club activities] Face to face activities is totally prohibited	In principle, make inquiries by e-mail or phone only. Consultation and submission of documents at the office can only be made with prior permission from the office.	No lending	Conduct meetings online or by email as much as possible.
Level 4 (Red)	A state in which a large number of people are infected and the campus needs to be temporarily closed	Online classes only.	In principle, research trips should be canceled. Participation in and sponsoring of meetings of academic societies is prohibited. As a general rule, research must be conducted at home, and entry into campus is possible only when necessary for educational and research preparation.	Entry is prohibited in principle. If it is necessary for students to enter the campus urgently, they must gain permission from their department or graduate school in advance. (Leave as soon as possible.)	Face to face activities is totally prohibited	Closed. Only contact by e-mail or phone.	No lending	In principle, meetings (except emergency management meetings), shall be conducted online or by email.
Level 5 (Black)	A serious emergency (A situation in which teachers and staff are unable to work due to the spread of infection, etc.)	Online classes only.	Only the minimum number of personnel necessary to maintain research assets is allowed.	All students are prohibited from entering any campus.	Face to face activities is totally prohibited	Closed. Only contact by e-mail or phone.	No lending	Online or email meetings only.

*These guidelines are subject to change depending on future conditions.